HISTORY

'Moving forward together.'

Coast & Moors Voluntary Action was formed in 2007 following the merger between Scarborough District Council for Voluntary Service (formed in 1913) and Whitby & District Voluntary Action (formed in 1986).

GEOGRAPHY

Coast & Moors Voluntary Action delivers services and projects to the Borough of Scarborough. This also includes the towns of Whitby and Filey as well as a large rural area. A map of the area is shown below:

Coast & Moors Voluntary Action

Coast & Moors Voluntary Action provides a local voice for the voluntary and community sector in Scarborough, Whitby and the surrounding areas.

We are a member led organisation. We work with strategic partners to help local people and provide direct support to some 200 local voluntary and community groups.

Coast & Moors Voluntary Action provides community services, regenerates neighbourhoods, increases volunteering, tackles discrimination and works in partnership with other agencies. Our services also include the provision of premises and equipment, helping voluntary and community groups to deliver sustainable services to local people.

Coast and Moors Voluntary Action is a local infrastructure organisation. This means that we deliver 5 key areas of work:

Identifying and filling gaps

We monitor what local communities need and what services are available. We work with local groups to meet that need and fill any gaps.

Raising Standards

By providing access to information and advice, we ensure that voluntary and community groups have the knowledge, skills and resources to support local people.

Communicating and working together

We provide systems for local groups to work together, share information, network and learn from one another in order to build a stronger local voluntary and community sector.

Providing a voice

We ensure that the views of local voluntary and community groups are heard, by promoting two way communication between decision-makers and the local sector.

Promoting strategic involvement

We ensure that the local voluntary sector is represented on key strategic planning groups such as the Local Strategic Partnership, to influence planning and policy-making.
